Stimson Calls for Use Of U. S. Navy Right Now In Battle of the Atlantic

Blunt Plea Strengthens Belief Such Strategy
Is Now Receiving
Consideration
Trial Balloons

Foreign Policy Opponents Regard Talk as Trial Balloon

Washington, May 7 (AP)—A blunt plea from Secretary of War Stimson for use of the U. S. Navy—"right now"—in the battle of the Atlantic strengthened the belief today that some such strategy is now receiving administration consideration.

Special importance was attached to Stimson's words in many quarters because Stephen Early, presidential secretary, said it could be assumed that the war department chief discussed his address in advance with Mr. Roosevelt.

Stimson was the fifth cabinet officer to speak out strongly in recent weeks for more dynamic action to guarantee the success of the aid-to-Britain program, but he was the first to advocate a specific course—use of the navy.

In advocating this prompt naval assistance, Stimson told the nation in his radio address last night that Germany had extended her zone of unrestricted sea warfare into the western hemisphere.

He also assailed the character of German submarine warfare in the north Atlantic, calling it "illegal," and a "violation of law and humanity."

The U-boat tactics, he said, were identical with those of 1917 when they "caused the President and Congress to take up arms in defense of the freedom of the seas."

Charges Germany
The charge that Germany had extended the unrestricted zone to hemisphere waters and "forbidden us to enter" was the first such assertion to come from a high administration official. It was thought that Stimson referred to the fact that the Nazi danger zone now extends to within a few miles of the coast of Greenland, where U. S. defense bases are being established.

Stimson's mention of the doctrine of freedom of the sea coupled with the parallel he drew between U-boat warfare in 1917 and 1941 was interpreted in some quarters as veiled notice from the administration to Germany that there were limits to what the United States would tolerate.

In this connection, it was said, the war secretary's emphasis on freedom of the sea might presage a formal administration reassertion of the historic American policy on that point—a move that would necessitate repeal of the Neutrality Act—and then insist-

Chaplain

REV. PAUL M. YOUNG

The Rev. Paul M. Young, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, will report for duty next month at Camp McClellan, Ala., it was announced today.

Sunday the congregation will be asked for ratification of the pastor's request for a leave of absence of one year as decided at a meeting of the Church Council last night.

Pastor Young first served with the Seventh N. Y. N. G. From the Seventh, he entered the Medical Department of the Regular Army. He resigned from the service to enter the ministry. During the World War he was called again by his country and served as chaplain of the fortifications of New York Harbor.

During his absence the congregation expects to have the Rev. Otto L. Schrieber, Ph. D., professor of history at Hartwick College, Oneonta, to supply the pulpit.

The congregation stated "again he has been called, we shall miss him, but as he goes it is with the well wishes and prayers of the members of St. Paul's Lutheran Church and his host of friends in Kingston."

Council Opposes St. Lawrence Plan

Democratic Members Can't See Why the Question
Should Come Up

Tuesday evening the Common Council by a majority vote went on record as opposed to the development of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence seaway project following the reading of a communication from Mayor C. J. Heislman setting forth his reasons for opposing the project.

On the vote on the resolution three of the Democratic members of the council voted against the adoption of the resolution.

Alderman Donnaruma of the Sixth ward said that the question was now being debated in Congress and he could not see why such an international question should be brought to the attention of Kingston's council.

The three Democratic aldermen who voted "No" on the resolution were Alderman William Houghtaling, Walter Donnaruma and Herbert Wolff.

Alderman Monroe of the Eighth ward in explaining his vote in favor of the resolution said it was a question that affected the city of Kingston.

The mayor's communication follows:
May 6, 1941
To the Honorable Common Council,
Kingston, N. Y.
Gentlemen:

It has been proposed that Congress appropriate a huge sum of money for the development of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Seaway Project, and I recommend that your honorable body adopt and send to our congressional representatives a resolution opposing the construction of such a project for the following reasons:

(a) It cannot be justified from

Changes on Local Boards Reported To City Aldermen

Louis G. Bruhn Is Member of Zoning Group and
W. H. Grogan Leaves
Welfare Board

Attorney Louis G. Bruhn of 142 Elmendorf street, who has been a member of the health board of the city, has been appointed a member of the zoning board while John F. Edwards of 186 Main street, succeeds him on the health board it was learned last night when Mayor C. J. Heislman filed several appointments and reappointments to the various city boards with the Common Council.

Attorney William H. Grogan's resignation as a member of the public welfare department of which he has been serving as president, was accepted, and the mayor appointed Oscar S. Williams of 85 Mountain View avenue in his place.

Mr. Grogan had filed his resignation in February but it had been returned to him by the mayor. He again filed it asking that he be relieved of duties of office by May 5.

President John J. Schwenk read a letter that the mayor had written commending the work done by Mr. Grogan while a member of the welfare department. Mr. Grogan had been a member since 1936.

Other appointments or reappointments made by the mayor and filed with the council were: Edward J. Hillis reappointed to police board.

Andrew J. Cook reappointed to education board.
Clarence S. Rowland reappointed to education board.
Harry S. Hutton to civil service board.

Walter L. Foster appointed to civil service board.

Fred J. Albrecht of Ravine street appointed to the examining board of plumbers.

Edward L. Ramer of Irving Place reappointed a member of the health board.

Mayor Heislman announced with great regret the resignation of William H. Grogan as a commissioner of public welfare. Mr. Grogan, local attorney, was appointed to the board by Mayor Heislman in 1936 and has served continuously, and as president of the board since the resignation of Stephen D. Hiltbrant. The mayor said that commissioner Grogan had rendered the city of Kingston a most distinguished service at great personal sacrifice in one of the most difficult jobs in the city—on the welfare board—and on behalf of the citizens of Kingston the mayor wished to thank Mr. Grogan for that splendid service.

Extension of Water Service Is Forecast

Extension of the city's water service to houses located outside the city limits was forecast in the adoption Tuesday evening by the Common Council of Local Law No. 1 of 1941, which had its third and final reading that evening.

The local law drafted some time ago when residents of Golf Terrace, just outside the city limits, petitioned the water board to extend the city water mains so that they could be supplied with city water.

The petition called attention to the fact that the water from the wells on Golf Terrace and vicinity had been tested and found unsafe for human consumption. The water board was unable to grant the petition, however, as under the provisions of the city charter the board was not permitted to extend water service beyond the city limits.

Later the problem was referred to the council for solution, which resulted in the drafting and introduction of the local law which has now been approved by the common council.

The local law in brief grants the water board the right to extend water service to points outside the city under certain conditions.

Camp Is Destroyed In River Road Fire

Dining Hall and Recreation Quarters Are Levelled

Fire which started in the main dining hall at Camp-Chi-Wan-Da on the River Road south of Port Ewen village shortly before 7 o'clock last evening destroyed the dining hall and recreation building, a large frame structure about 100 feet long. The property, formerly known as Camp Esopus, was owned by New York parties and used for summer camp purposes.

The camp was being placed in shape for the summer season and during the day several men had been engaged at the camp. Flames were first discovered in the south end of the large recreation hall and dining room. Chief Edward C. Mains of the Port Ewen fire department was notified and the fire department responded but due to headway of the flames and because the camp water system had not yet been hooked up, it was impossible to do anything to save the main structure and the firemen turned their attention to saving adjoining bungalows and other camp buildings.

Water from the booster tank of the fire engine was used with success to prevent spread of the flames to adjacent buildings but flying embers set fire to the woods and an area of two or three acres to the north and east of the camp was burned over before the firemen were able to put the fire under control.

6,000 Deportable Aliens Are 'Free'

Washington, May 7 (AP)—Attorney General Jackson said today there were 6,000 deportable aliens who are still "free" in the United States as he ordered the round-up of 160 German seamen for questioning.

The Justice Department revealed that officers had been directed to round-up the seamen who were supposed to be in New York, Miami, San Francisco, Chicago and Kansas City under an agreement permitting their freedom after deportation orders were completed but could not be executed for lack of machinery.

The attorney general, in an address prepared for the American Judicature Society, warned that "under modern methods of warfare the most critical period for a nation under attack is the period preceding the actual employment of military force."

"The secret weapon of the Nazis has been the failure of nation after nation to recognize and deal with this non-military invasion," Jackson said. "Our statute law has in many respects failed to take into account this non-military period of attack."

The 160 seamen were on tankers of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey when they were transferred to Panamanian registry, a Justice Department official said. They were removed from the crews and the company agreed to provide upkeep for men, who were to maintain fixed residence, notify of any change of address, and follow other regulations as there was no way to deport them.

"They are now being picked

Press Settlement of Wage Disputes In General Motors

(By The Associated Press)
The Defense Mediation Board at Washington pressed today for settlement of a wage dispute in 60 General Motors Corporation plants, after averting a threatened strike at the Minneapolis Honeywell Regulator Company, holder of $3,000,000 worth of defense contracts.

A panel of the board detailed to the General Motors controversy recessed early today after an apparently unproductive night session, and arranged to meet again later in the day.

The C. I. O. United Automobile workers have demanded wage increases of 10 cents an hour; the company's best offer reportedly was for a 2 cent boost.

Union recognition was the principal point at issue in the Minneapolis Honeywell case, but details of the settlement were not made public immediately.

Labor department conciliators continued their efforts to bring about an agreement to end the strike of 1,400 bus drivers and other employees of the Pennsylvania Greyhound Lines.

Three thousand employees of the Ex-Cell-O tool making plant at Detroit were idle as a result of a C. I. O.-called strike for higher wages. The company was reported to have offered an increase of 5 cents an hour but the union asked for 10 cents.

Group Takes Steps For Consolidation Of Rural Schools

At the annual meeting of the voters of School District No. 9, Rifton, Tuesday night, steps were taken toward the consolidation of the Rifton and Rock Hill school districts. The move was taken on recommendation of Ralph H. Johnson, district superintendent of schools.

The Rifton district has an assessed valuation of under $60,000 and an attendance at school of but nine pupils, while the Rock Hill district has a valuation of around a quarter of a million dollars.

It is the policy of the state to seek consolidation of such small districts with nearby districts, in the interest of improved educational advantages. Officials of the Rifton district will take up the matter with officials of the Rock Hill district and will report on conclusions arrived at, to Superintendent Johnson before July 1. About a dozen voters attended the meeting Tuesday night and re-elected Harold Perkosky trustee.

Hurley Meeting

At the annual meeting of Hurley School District No. 1, held at the new schoolhouse in Hurley Tuesday night, Charles Relyea was elected a trustee for three years in place of Joseph Armature, whose term expires and who declined re-election. Charles Lockwood was elected a trustee for one year, to fill out the unexpired term of George Bates, who resigned for reasons of health.

It was voted to levy a tax of $6,500 on the district, being the district's share of the expense of running the school for the coming year, total budget being under $11,000. The vote on the budget was 33 to 7. Other action taken authorized the taking of 10 pupils from a Lomontville district, for the second year and also the hiring of a fourth teacher for the school, which at present has an attendance of 110, with more expected when the fall term opens.

'Britain Can't Lose'

New York, May 7 (AP)—Brushing aside German victories to date as "inevitable," Prime Minister Robert Gordon Menzies of Australia says "Britain can't lose." He arrived last night on the Dixie Clipper from Lisbon on the return half of a round-the-world fact-seeking mission, and coupled his prediction of British victory with this advice to Americans: "The speed with which she wins depends on you."

Hitler's Luftwaffe Again
Hits British Shipyards and Ports

(By The Associated Press)

Prime Minister Winston Churchill won a smashing vote of confidence on his conduct of the war today after predicting to the House of Commons that Britain would be successful in holding the Egyptian valley of the Nile, the Suez canal and Malta.

The vote was 447 to 3.

At the same time, Capt. A. J. M. Hudson, civil lord of the admiralty, drew thunderous cheers from the House when he declared "we have every reason to be encouraged by recent results" achieved in Britain's struggle against the German U-boat campaign.

Even as Churchill spoke, Nazi daylight raiders jabbed anew at the island kingdom.

British Spitfires and German Messerschmitts fought a spectacular battle over the English Channel today after a night of aerial fury in which Adolf Hitler's Luftwaffe again pounded British shipyards and ports of arrival for United States war materials.

RAF night raiders attacked the north German port of Hamburg and the docks at Le Havre. Then, by daylight, bombers escorted by fighters roared across the Strait of Dover toward the French coast on a new mission.

In the channel fight, these claims were made:

London—Four German fighters shot down, one RAF plane fell into the sea.
Berlin—Six British planes destroyed; German losses, none.

Waves of Nazi bombers smashed overnight at the big Clyde-side shipyards of Glasgow, Scotland; attacked Liverpool for the sixth straight night, and bombed northern Ireland for the third night in a row.

No Meters Here

Installation of Parking Meters Not Warranted, Says Committee

The death knell to parking meters in the uptown business district was sounded—for a while at least—Tuesday evening when the Common Council unanimously adopted the report of its traffic control committee that "after full consideration of the matter, and of the present attitude of the merchants and of the general public, this committee feels that the installation of meters at this time is not warranted."

The committee's report called attention to the fact that Mayor C. J. Heislman had called a special meeting of the council for Wednesday, April 16, for the purpose of receiving a communication from him and to consider an ordinance to install parking meters on certain streets of the city. Transmitted with the letter of the mayor was a communication dated April 4, from the Uptown Business Men's Association asking for a six months trial installation of parking meters in the uptown business district.

The ordinance was referred to the traffic control committee who held a public hearing on April 21 with Alderman Clarence Robertson presiding.

The report stated "there was no appearance on the part of the proponents of the proposed ordinance for the installation of meters. One person only, not a merchant in the affected district, signified his approval of the proposed installation."

"Several representative merchants of the North Front street area indicated their strong disapproval of the installation of parking meters."

"Inquiries made by this committee subsequent to the date of the hearing showed a general disapproval on the part of the public to the proposed installation."

Measure Proposed On One Per Cent City Utility Tax

Mayor Heiselman in a communication to the council last night recommended that local Law No. 3 of 1937 be amended so that the city could take advantage of the one per cent tax on gross incomes of public utilities doing business in the city. The communication, which was referred to the laws and rules committee, reads as follows:

To the Honorable Common Council, Kingston, New York.

Gentlemen: Since 1937, the City of Kingston, in accordance with authority granted to the cities of the state of New York by state law, has imposed a one per cent tax on the gross incomes of public utilities doing business in the city, the proceeds of such tax to be used solely and exclusively for relief. Each year the state legislature has extended its original authority to cities to impose such a tax and each year your honorable body has extended the local law imposing such tax. The last such local law, enacted in 1940, expires on June 30, 1941. Most of the cities of the state have likewise taken advantage of this provision of law. The income therefrom in this city amounts annually to approximately $12,000.00, which sum is kept in a separate account and disbursed by the city treasurer in the payment of bills incurred in granting public assistance to those in need.

The state legislature, during its last regular session, extended the right to extend this tax for another year to June 30, 1942.

I therefore recommend to your honorable body that you amend Local Law No. 3 of the year 1937, known as Local Law No. 19 of the City of Kingston, for the term and in accordance with the powers granted by Section 20-b of the General City Law of the state of New York, as amended, continuing to impose a one per cent tax on gross public utility incomes for the year ending June 30, 1942, and that the income thereof shall be used solely and exclusively for granting aid to those in need.

Yours truly,

C. J. HEISELMAN, Mayor.

CJH-TWM.

Health Committee Decides to Open Camp Happyland

At a meeting of the Ulster County Committee on Tuberculosis and Public Health, held on Monday evening, it was decided to re-open Camp Happyland for the 1941 season.

Ninety Ulster county boys and girls, who are under par and in need of up-building, will be given four weeks each of the camp routine by the Christmas Seals Committee without charge—the boys in July and the girls in August.

Undernourished children need plenty of rest, fresh air, the camp appetite, regular meals, and sound sleep. More than the average boy and girl they need the outdoor tonic in company with other children who are seeking the same help to build up a resistance against colds and many other diseases, for the doctors say that the undernourished child is in danger and has not the fair chance which a husky boy and girl enjoys.

Each community in Ulster county is allotted a quota. If this quota is not filled it may be taken by the overflow from other places. Applications, which include a report of physical examination by a physician, immunization against diphtheria and vaccination against smallpox, must be in the committee office by June 10.

Doctors, nurses, social workers or interested citizens may refer children, who are in need of this special care and training to the Christmas Seals office, 74 John street, Kingston.

Commission Gives Rate Permission To Ellenville Co.

Albany, May 7—The Public Service Commission has granted the Ellenville Electric Co. permission to put into effect reduced rates which will result in savings of $211 to industrial consumer of electricity in Ellenville and a portion of the town of Wawarsing, Ulster county. The changes will become effective May 15.

The company proposes to add an additional block to the annual all-purpose rate which will provide a reduction of one-half cent per kilowatt hour for use of electricity of more than 5,000 kilowatt hours per month. The reduction is made to afford a lower rate to customers who require greater load because of the present activity in the industrial field. The new rate for consumption over 5,000 kilowatt hours will be 2 cents per kilowatt hour as against 2½ cents under the existing rate. The commission also announced that it has approved a plan of

The New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad Co. for the installation of automatic horizontal flashing light signals at the railroad company's grade crossing known as Gaffney's crossing at Clintondale, Town of Lloyd, Ulster county.

The Central Idea

J. A. SIMPSON, Agent, Kingston

IT'S A TWO-WAY PROPOSITION

Funny thing about trains. When you think about them in your mind, they always seem to be "going away."

Taking somebody or something with them.

I just want to remind you that the "Central" brings things into town, too.

Not only steak and oranges and the mail every day—but money, too, in taxes. Loaded on every train.

Next time you see one of our "Central" trains, think of that load. Of course you can't see taxes, but they're all there. A high-school education for a sizable lot of nice children. An easier old age for folks that need help. The lights that burn on the streets here at night.

As a matter of fact, the New York Central is one of the biggest tax-payers in these parts. No other carrier comes close to paying as much.

The town benefits when you make use of the "Central" just as it does when you buy your furniture or clothes locally. The "Central's" a two-way proposition. And that's good business, isn't it?

Stalin Sees Imminent Crisis, Puts Himself In Slot to Deal With It

Assuming Premiership of Russia Is Far From Self-Explanatory — Care in Naming Crisis

By DEWITT MACKENZIE (Freeman Special News Service)

Joseph Stalin's surprising emergence from the privacy of the office where he has quietly but firmly pulled the strings of government, to assume the premiership of Russia, is far from self-explanatory, but it strikes me there is one assumption we can make safely—that he foresees some imminent crisis and has put himself in the slot to deal with it.

When we go further, however, and try to put a finger on the exact crisis he has in view we should move cautiously, for the mind of the Muscovite sphinx is a closed book excepting as he resorts to action. Still, there are several logical possibilities.

Among these I should put well to the fore the growing tension between the Axis and the United States.

Stalin sees Washington's stiffened attitude, as evidenced by such developments as Secretary of War Stimson's plea for use of our navy to guarantee the success of the aid-to-Britain program. The Communist leader notes the Nazi announcement that it is preparing to increase munitions production on the assumption that there is a possibility America may enter the war.

Maybe he too believes that the United States may get into the conflict. I don't know that. He wouldn't be the chief of all the Russias, however, if he didn't have the foresight to prepare for such a contingency. That event would completely alter the complexion of the war, and would be bound to have a profound effect on the Soviet Union.

There is another matter which is of vast concern to Stalin. That is Germany's thrust into what Russia considers her preserves in the lower Balkans and on the Dardanelles, and the indications that Hitler may strike into the Near East, thereby further menacing Soviet interests.

Then there have been signs that Hitler is again looking with speculative eyes on Russia's Ukraine. Possession of that productive state would give the Nazis vital supplies which they lack. Hitler's first move in that direction would mean war with the Bolsheviks.

And there is still another possibility. Hitler is reported to be applying the heat to Japan to force her to make war on Britain and the United States in the Far East, to create a diversion for the benefit of the European conflict. Stalin can't overlook that situation, which is full of dynamite for him.

Is the Bolshevik chief thinking of sending his great army into action?

It would be rash to take that for granted, as I see the position. It is fair to assume, however, that he envisages that possibility and is getting set to meet the crisis if and when it develops.

Some observers believe Stalin's move portends a change in policy, possibly a break with Germany. That might be, for a clash between Russia and Nazism sooner or later seems inevitable to many. Stalin's assumption of the premiership, however, isn't very strong evidence that such a development is impending, since Soviet policies long have needed his approval, and he didn't need to take the premier's office to change a policy.

I believe Stalin's taking over his new office was to place accent on his leadership—to bring him into active command in the field so to speak. Such a move isn't strange, for he can see that the World War is on the verge of momentous developments. Russia might easily be drawn into the melee, and in any event he wants to be prepared to take advantage of any opening which will benefit Russia and the Communist world revolution.

KINGSTON YOUTHS LEAD

It would seem only proper and just that with the barrage of abuse frequently leveled at youth today that their accomplishments should at least receive equal recognition.

At various intervals there has been heard criticism of our young people, but we wonder what the critics will have to say now with the high honors captured by the boys and girls of the Kingston High School in both intelligence and musical tests.

In the news columns of The Freeman on Monday, May 5, was a story of how the A Cappella Choir, composed of eighty-five students of the high school, were given a Class 1 rating at Atlantic City when 6,000 high school musicians from six eastern states took part in the grand finale of the two-day Eastern Music Educators' Music Festival.

The rating awarded the local students is a compliment not only to their own ability but to the type of instruction given them in music at the high school.

Not only was the student choir given a Class 1 rating, but several of the soloists from the high school also were awarded that rating.

Then turning from the musical to the intelligence test we can point to the account of the achievement of the Kingston Quiz Kids, 13-year-old Leonard Rabin, a sophomore; 15-year-old Kathryn Nagy, a freshman, and 15-year-old Paul Beshtegoorian, an end junior in Kingston High School. On Sunday they won their eighth consecutive victory in a battle of wits with contestants chosen from high schools in other cities over Station WGY in Schenectady. So far they have defeated Rensselaer, Glens Falls, Schenectady, Hudson, Waterford, Rutland, Vt., Cobleskill and Pittsfield, Mass.

This series of victories over the picked youth from the high schools of other cities reflects credit not only upon the contestants themselves, but the instruction they have received from the faculty of the high school in their school life.

It would seem to the average person that the instruction the youth of the city is receiving along musical and academic lines is an indication that the intelligence rating of the youth of Kingston is not only extremely high, but that the Board of Education has met with success in selecting the instructors who for five days a week have the task of imparting knowledge to these growing youth—the men and the women of tomorrow.

Kingston it would seem through the work of these young folks is rapidly gaining a name for itself as a cultural center of learning, both in music and in the basic work of a sound educational background which should lead the youth of the city to high places in the years that lie before them.

BURNING WOOD

Forest fires are still raging in the eastern part of the country and the light rains of the past few days are insufficient. In New York state the head of the conservation department said the situation was at its worst at the end of April and that nothing but a drenching rain could save about 40,000,000 seedlings and small trees at the state nursery.

In Massachusetts, after nearly 100 square miles of forest had been blackened and 20 cottages burned to the ground near Groton, shifting and increasing winds caused new fires to break out again in five places. Other areas—both forests and towns—were menaced in other parts of New England.

According to a recent estimate of the U. S. Forest Service, fire loss in the northeastern states already amounted to about $3,000,000. More than 5,000 fires, extending from Kentucky to Maine, were fought between April 14 and 23, and new fires were still developing after that. Fifty thousand fire-fighters were called out in that period, including men from army training camps.

Prolonged, soaking rains would end the immediate danger, but even without them there is something human beings should do.

Most of these fires were caused in the first place by careless persons. Grass and brush fires were allowed to get out of control, or burning matches were dropped among dry leaves. There have been other preventable causes of this tremendous waste. If it is to be an abnormally dry year, as it has been a dry spring, there must be unusually careful observance of fire-prevention rules.

ALASKAN PROGRESS

Today public interest in Alaska is centered in defense activities there. Uncle Sam is spending $90,000,000 to build army and navy bases at Sitka, Kodiak, Anchorage, Fairbanks and Dutch Harbor, supplementary establishments near Ketchikan, Yukutat and Nome, and landing fields between. The population, long around 60,000, has jumped to 75,000 as it has been augmented by troops, construction workers and technicians.

Alaskans have wanted statehood for some time. Perhaps they will get it sooner as a result of this new importance and swift development.

Even Communists, who are usually slow on the in-take, may soon begin to suspect that people don't like 'em.

Sure, we're willing to pay higher income taxes; and maybe we can trust Congress not to go too far, because they've got to pay, too.

This is a great column era—columns left and columns right and columns wrong.

They say there's more money in the country, but maybe it's only moving faster.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By James W. Barton, M.D.

(Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act.)
EVERY PATIENT IS A MENTAL PATIENT

An elderly physician was giving advice to a recent graduate in medicine and told him that in his early years of practice when a patient consulted him, he asked what his trouble was, and the patient would say his trouble was in his stomach, in his heart, lungs, shoulder, kidney, or other organ or part of the body. The physician then examined the organ or part and told him what he had found.

If he found nothing wrong, the patient went out thinking there was nothing wrong, or that there was something wrong and the physician had not been able to find it. "However, I soon found that if I let him tell me more about his symptoms and what seemed to bring them on, he became less worried and almost 'confidential' in his manner and conversation. I sometimes think that with all the new equipment for examination, and the work done in the laboratories, you young medical men do not give your patients enough time to tell you all about themselves. And it is often in this telling all about themselves that you can find the cause of their symptoms."

"The next step after letting the patient talk about himself is to make a thorough examination. If there is really no organic trouble, your manner and your examination should be sufficient to remove any fear the patient has about himself. If there is some real or organic trouble, the thoroughness of your examination should give him confidence in you so that he will faithfully carry out your advice."

I have spoken before of the statement of Dr. C. A. Martin, McGill University, who said that "every patient is a mental patient." This means that the physician's examination must be both mental and physical in every case.

WOODLOT LUMBER NO MAKESHIFT

As a substitute for cash in the construction and repair of farm buildings, the woodlot is more than a makeshift. That is the opinion of O. E. Brunkow, of the Department of Agriculture's Bureau of Agricultural Chemistry and Engineering, who has been studying farm building problems in cooperation with the University of Wisconsin.

In a recent talk to Wisconsin farm people, Brunkow urged him to build during dull seasons of farm work, using farm labor directed by a good carpenter. It is still better if the carpenter has a portable power saw and jointer. Much woodlot lumber is short, he said, and there is more fitting to do and more care is required for strength and weather-tightness. He said two-story buildings can be well constructed with these short lengths by using platform construction.

Lumber from the farm woods is insurance against building delays, Brunkow said. He suggested farmers gradually build up a stock of the most necessary tools, learn to use them, and take good care of them.

Radio Commission Order Will Demoralize If Not Destroy Network Broadcasting and Program Distribution
(By DAVID LAWRENCE)

Washington, May 7 — Hardly more than a year ago—on March 25, 1940—a unanimous opinion of the Supreme Court of the United States written by Justice Roberts explained the law of radio and ruled that the licensing power of the Federal Communications Commission was limited solely to the allocation of mechanical facilities. This opinion becomes pertinent now because the commission on May 2, 1941, issued an order which will virtually demoralize, if not destroy, the business of network broadcasting and program distribution in America. The commission was never given such authority in the law itself and yet more than 400 radio stations today face a penalty—the loss of their licenses—if they do not comply with the commission's order to break up their existing program service. Here is what the Supreme Court said in part:

"The communications act does not essay to regulate the business of the licensee. The commission is given no supervisory control of the programs, or business management or of policy. In short, the broadcasting field is open to anyone, provided there is an available frequency (wave length) over which he can broadcast without interference to others, if he shows his competency, the adequacy of his equipment, and financial ability to make good use of the assigned channel."

"Plainly it is not the purpose of the act to protect a licensee against competition, but to protect the public. Congress intended to leave competition in the business of broadcasting where it found it, to permit a licensee who was not interfering electrically with other broadcasters to survive or succumb according to his ability to make his programs attractive to the public."

And yet five out of the seven members of the commission in their latest decree tell the stations that they will lose their licenses unless they change their present relationship with the network companies. National service, as the public has enjoyed it, must now be superseded by a purely local hit-or-miss scheme and no network can make arrangement to sell its time for specified hours to a group of stations even though the local station wants to do it that way and the public wants that kind of service.

The commission has repeatedly licensed radio stations under the present system and a network series of programs has been built up which renders the American people satisfactory service, but the commission, suddenly out of a clear sky, upsets the whole arrangement of 12 years and threatens not to renew licenses unless its edict is complied with.

Entirely apart from such mischievous use of governmental power to break down the stability of a business operation by means of the licensing authority—arrogating to itself powers not granted or delegated by congress—is the fact that the commission really endeavors to say what should or should not be broadcast over the air. It even hints in its latest report that it will control the talent participating in the programs.

If the licensing privilege in government extends to any such abuse then the government may set up censorship any time not merely of the radio but of the newspapers. The second-class mail privilege is a form of license. The courts have ruled that it must not be used to decide what shall be printed, but it will be easy, once the communications commission has established a precedent, for a government department to say how the newspaper business shall be conducted. In fact the first step has been taken already by the Federal Communications Commission in threatening to refuse to permit newspapers to own broadcasting stations. There is no authority in law which allows the F.C.C. to discriminate as between citizens or companies in the granting of licenses, but once usurpation goes unchecked, the liberties of the people are gradually whittled away in other directions too.

These words of Commissioners Case and Craven who voted against the latest decree are a clear warning against the fascism that's in the making in Washington. "On the whole radio broadcasting has an excellent record of public service. . . . Radio is so constituted that it is sensitive to public criticism and responds promptly to changing public tastes. For this commission or any agency of government to attempt to substitute its judgment for that of the public involves an arrogant presumption which should be avoided at all costs. . . ."

"It can be argued with logic that invasion of this economic field by the licensing authority in the absence of clear legal mandate would constitute an inevitable prelude to the second step of assuming the role of arbiter of public tastes."

"Circumstances may require the federal government to exercise broad powers in many fields of our economic life; but it is imperative that broadcasting be maintained as a free American institution."

Not content with a formal threat to revoke licenses unless its orders are obeyed, the F.C.C. now has turned over its report to the department of justice for study and presumably prosecution. This is where the whole matter should have gone in the first place. The Sherman anti-trust laws apply to everybody. There was no need to threaten to revoke licenses. But this is the era of arbitrary and capricious bureaucracy which ignores the statutes of congress and stipulates its own penalties irrespective of the fact that there are no words in the law granting such punitive powers. No hearing was even given interested parties before the order was promulgated.

Is this the kind of democracy the American people are asked to tax themselves for and perhaps give the lives of their sons to defend? President Roosevelt appointed these commissioners and he has encouraged the punitive practices of governmental commissions by refusing to sign the Logan-Walter Bill passed last session by an overwhelming majority of both Houses of congress—a measure designed to curb the usurpers of governmental power. ### "AT CENTURY'S TURN"

By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

With the Red Cross very active in Kingston it is interesting to recall that the Ulster County Chapter was organized at a meeting held on November 30, 1908, in the Y. M. C. A. when Monsignor R. L. Burtzell of St. Mary's Church was named temporary chairman, and Mrs. Clara Norton Reed as temporary secretary.

The charter members of the organization were Dr. Mary Gage-Day, Dr. L. K. Stelle, the Rev. Charles Mercer Hall, Dr. J. R. Nelson, Dr. A. Stern, Miss Marion, Miss Grace, Miss J. L. Shurtler, the Rev. J. G. Van Slyke, Mrs. J. G. Van Slyke, the Rev. Dr. Burtzell, Dr. A. H. Mambert, Miss Beulah Smith, the Rev. Dr. Charles G. Ellis, Dr. Frank Keator, Ira Coutant and Mrs. Reed.

Of the charter members that met that night many have since died, but some of the members are still active.

At this organization meeting dues were also received from Mrs. Augusta Schoonmaker and Dr. W. J. O'Leary, with applications for membership from the Rev. Philip B. Strong, Dr. E. D. B. Loughran and William F. Hoehn.

From that first meeting the organization in Kingston and Ulster county has grown in membership, and during the World War the local Red Cross accomplished considerable worthwhile work.

With the entry of our country into the World War in April 1917, there followed the usual raise in price of foodstuffs, and is interesting to note that even the Board of Police Commissioners took note of the advancing cost of living for a meeting held on May 18, 1917, the board voted to increase the pay of a policeman from $80 to $90 a month, and raised the pay of Sergeant William F. Hanley and Sergeant Charles Phinney to $115 a month, while Chief of Police J. Allan Wood had his salary advanced from $1,600 a year to $1,800.

Today a patrolman on the city's police force is paid at the rate of $2,040 a year, while the paid firemen receive a similar amount.

Friday evening, May 18, 1917, at a meeting held in the city hall of those interested in the Boy Scout movement the following officers were elected: Elva H. Bogart, president; Abe Freeman, first vice president; Charles W. Walton, second vice president; Andrew J. Cook, third vice president; Charles R. O'Connor, secretary; Ward B.

Sing For A Penny

By Clifford Dowdye

Clifford Dowdye's "Sing for a Penny" makes a considerable effect, for a somewhat unusual reason. I was probably more impressed with it than the average reader will be because it proves a private theory for me.

The theory is that if anybody puts down every single detail of a given subject with average skill, neglecting nothing which has any bearing at all upon it, he will produce a good story or a good book.

His "hero" is a singularly unpleasant young man. His heroine is even worse, being an opportunist and a quitter. The whole premise of the book is a little disgusting — Kirby Harrow sets out to conquer Richmond because of a vulgar jealousy of certain relatives of his mother's who are gentlemen and ladies, but only rich. In his conquest he wholly ruins his wife's relatives, pushes his mother's family to the danger point, and alienates or destroys every single member of his own immediate family.

Kirby knows, at first, only how to drive himself. He is determined to move his family out of the common neighborhood into which he was born, in the Richmond of reconstruction days. He does that, and pushes his employer out at the same time. He is determined to move again, and does that, too, in order to cut a figure in the eyes of his wife's relatives. There are other moves, and in the meantime Kirby is using the lower methods of high finance to provide the money. These methods he learns first from a cheap promoter, and later begins improvising on his own.

Kirby finds he must keep rushing forward, or fall, like the then non-existent airplane. He is still rushing at the end of "Sing for a Penny." He is also a person not even a mother could love, and the book, although I believe it produces the effect its author wanted, badly needs a likeable chief character. Just one person who is not weak, not vulgar, not venal.

Growers Need Not Fear Berry Disease

Early Planting Conditions Usually Cause Trouble

Geneva, N. Y., May 7.—Starting with vigorous, healthy plants and setting them out in well-drained beds, strawberry growers need have little fear of any serious trouble with disease, declares Dr. F. F. Suit, plant disease specialist at the State Experiment Station here. Complaints of losses in strawberry plantings from root rots, leaf spot, or leaf scorch can usually be traced to injuries of the plants at setting time or to beds that are being cropped longer than usual, says this authority.

"Roots injured by improper transplanting, poor soil conditions, drought, or fertilizers are subject to attack by various soil organisms and may develop root rot," says Doctor Suit, who continues, "A healthy root system is the best insurance against root rot. The site selected for the bed should be well drained and free from areas where water is apt to stand. The plants should be set out as early in the season as possible and should not be allowed to dry out before setting. If the plants come from a section with an earlier season, they should be secured while dormant and kept in cold storage at 32 degrees Fahrenheit until time to set them out."

The Red Stele Disease
The leaf diseases of strawberries such as leaf spot and leaf scorch, are not important unless the planting is to be cropped more than a year, especially if healthy plants are used at the start. An application of bordeaux mixture 3-3-100 as soon as the plants start growth in the spring with a second application two weeks later will hold these diseases in check.

The red stele disease of strawberries, which is quite similar to root rot, is comparatively new in this state, explains Doctor Suit, and has been found in only a few restricted areas. It is generally associated with poorly drained soils, and if the grower is careful in the selection of his planting site and starts with healthy plants he is not likely to have trouble with red stele in the opinion of this authority.

Modern Local Electrical Code Is Recommended

A more modern local electrical code to replace the present "obsolete" code in Kingston was recommended by Mayor C. J. Heiselman in a communication read at the meeting of the Common Council Tuesday evening. The communication was referred to the laws and rules committee.

The mayor's communication reads as follows:

To the Honorable Common Council, Kingston, New York.

Gentlemen:

Subdivision 27, Section 20, of the General City Law of the State of New York permits the adoption by local legislative bodies of codes of electricity practices and in setting up examining boards to determine the fitness and qualifications of applicants desiring to become licensed electricians and to govern and control the issuance of licenses to qualified electricians.

In dealing with the installation of electric wiring and apparatus, it is essential in the public safety that satisfactory standards of practice be established and that proper supervision be provided.

The present local electricity code is obsolete and we are in need of the enactment of a modern code and I recommend that your honorable body prepare and enact such a code.

Yours truly,
C. J. HEISELMAN,
Mayor.

Farmers Will Play Main Part in Plan

U.S. Department Planning Food Expansion

Ithaca, N. Y., May 7—Farmers of Ulster county and throughout the state may have an active and essential part in the national effort to assure ample food supplies for the United States and other nations resisting aggression, according to officials of the state college of agriculture.

The United States Department of Agriculture has announced a program of food expansion to increase the supplies of pork, dairy products, eggs, poultry, and tomatoes for canning. A nation wide drive to produce every possible egg from present laying flocks this spring and summer has been launched by the Secretary of Agriculture, and an increase of 50 per cent in production of tomatoes for canning has been announced.

Ways in which New York poultrymen who decide to expand production may increase their output were cited today by Cornell poultry staff members:

1. Obtain maximum egg production from present flocks by liberal feeding, control of parasites, and unremitting summer care.

2. Save every good layer. Culling need not be as close or strict as normal. Keep the borderline here this year.

3. Fill the laying houses to capacity next fall. This may mean starting more chicks than planned this spring.

The poultry experts say these suggestions are sound because an increase in the number of eggs will serve to spread overhead and labor costs and lower the production costs for each dozen of eggs.

They sound two cautions. One is that the construction of new poultry buildings on the basis of the emergency is not justified; the other is that it will be a mistake to fill laying houses beyond their capacity for it might easily result in reduced, not increased production.

Production of an extra 15,000,000 cases of canned tomatoes has been emphasized by the Secretary of Agriculture. New York growers of canning crops who cooperate in the expansion program are urged to make plans immediately. Plants must be started at once, for it takes about six weeks to grow them. The plants are usually set in the field the last of May, and should be completed by June 10.

Larger quantities of peas, corn, and snap beans for canning may also be needed.

Someday I'll Find You

BY MARGARET WIDEMER

YESTERDAY: It looked for a long time as if Eileen Gardner's wild decision to go to New York and make a place for herself was futile. For she had gone mostly to find Martin Dane, and she could not find him. But one night she did, and she asked him whether he believed his mother's feminist teaching that a girl had as much right to propose as a man. He did believe—now Eileen is going sking with Martin's crowd, and talking for the moment with Lewis Delevan.

Chapter 20 Tough Going

EILEEN faced his fine, hard eyes, and realized what that deliberate emphasis meant. Of course, she had told Martin to check on her. This man—well, better of course than a detective bureau—had been turned to, for checking. Whistled up as a sort of private guard. Well, at least then, Martin knew she told the truth about herself.

"Public Enemies Numbers One and Two, in fact?" she said coolly. "Tell me who these people are." Hands in pockets, small face tipped up to him far above her, she defied him silently.

He introduced her without more words than the nearest. A big healthy black-browed girl giving a last wax to her skis, kneeling beside them. A bigger, red-faced, black-browed man pawing records from a high cabinet—Bill and Lolly Grant, obviously brother and sister, obviously rather dumb and friendly to everybody. They grinned at her without prejudice.

The married couple, the Roland Perrine, were too much in love to bother one way or the other about outsiders or insiders. She was a round cheerful bright-eyed child in a furry collared jacket and trousers. He was lank and collegiate and taffy-colored. They held hands and sang, most of the time, she was to find.

Eileen was relaxing when Caroline burst in. She was swathed in a big white woolly coat that set off her fair flare of hair and her exquisite, high-cheekboned face. She waved ski sticks and shouted and descended on everyone indiscriminately with an attack of embraces and kisses. She stopped short, an arm still around Robina Perrine, and said, "Hello! Quick work, Martin—if it isn't little Gardenia!"

Eileen said, "The name's Gardner. You got it a little wrong."

Caroline wasn't giving quarter. Her voice rose gaily.

"Can you beat it, children! This is the one Martin found in the flower shop when he didn't get back for an hour! The girl with the trained ankle, coming right along with the party!"

Roly Perrine topped singing and pulled his wax closer. The friendly big Grant boy sobered, his hands stopping above the records. There were limits even to what Martin the playboy could hand to their womenfolk, the silence said.

Then Martin said casually, amused, over his shoulder from among the pile of luggage, "Should have broken it to you I was adding a pair of guests to my own party. Car, Matter of fact, I met Eileen when I flew out to Denver last June to say good-bye to my mother—danced with her, all that. She'd just graduated from the University of Colorado—you may remember Mother made her commencement speech? She and I held an Old Home Week in the taxi. I wanted her to come along to the night club, but she wouldn't do that, so we compromised on the skiing party. Sort of appropriate, she had my gold ski all this time."

"Had your gold ski?" Caroline's eyes gleamed green.

"I found it," Eileen said, and for whatever reason Caroline quieted. Robina Perrine said, as the tension dropped, "Oo-oo, and you're in a flower shop, what fun! I'm going to start a dress shop next fall if I can bully freedom enough out of the brutal bridegroom."

Good Time

AND that was over, and Eileen was streaming down with all of them into the big heated limousine. She found herself squeezed between the little bride and Lewis Delevan under the big furry rugs. Robina went on chattering in a friendly fashion. Lewis talked brief commonplaces.

She relaxed into the novel pleasure of the big swift car, the good cigarettes, the easy laughter and plans. She didn't force herself, but she put everything she had into getting along with the crowd. Show Martin that she could fit in with his friends.

By the time they piled out for luncheon at an upstate inn, Bill Grant turned out to be friends with a man she'd known at college, and Robina Perrine, as they did their faces in the ladies' room, was telling her excitedly how she came to fall for Roly. Careful, though, it wouldn't all be as easy as this.

That night, in sparkling moonlight, they bundled out, laughing, into a sweep of snow-filled landscape. They were racing up a shoveled path between snow piles to a long low lodge, bursting into a long pine-paneled room where a big fire roared in the middle.

A couple of roughly clad men who yelled greetings to Martin by his first name were efficiently bringing in luggage and passing drinks and coffee and sandwiches.

And presently Eileen was alone, deep in a soft narrow bed.

the Agricultural Conservation program and who participate in this expansion of production will not suffer any reduction in payments as a result, it is pointed out.

To assure the greater supply of tomatoes, the Surplus Marketing Administration, in considering bids will allow for increases of from $2.75 to $3 a ton more than 1940 contract prices.

College officials point out that at this date the supply of tomato plants is becoming limited. Growers who plan additional acreage staring at a fire crackling, and at a moonlit snow covered hill beyond a window. Tomorrow morning, instead of jumping awake with the alarm, dressing like a fire horse, snatching a cup of coffee at the drugstore, she'd wake and ring for a tray across her knees. She'd bathe leisurely in the big tub beyond the door. She deliberately shut out everything but that as she fell asleep.

Late as she rose, she found, coming into the living room, that only the men were up. Bill, in a corner, was working on his skis, the other two, lounging on low upholstered couches that grouped by the fire, were razzing Lewis for his energy.

"I'm a workman," Lewis was saying unmoved, shrugging himself into his leather wind-breaker. "Got to make use of holidays."

He stopped as the others rose at Eileen's entrance, but only to say, "Here's another worker. Put your things on Eileen, we'll skate till luncheon."

Probably a showdown, Well, as good first as last. She laughed back at the others and followed him. There was a small lake about a meadow's length from the house, with a little wood black above it. It was freshly frozen. They changed to skates in silence, and as silently took two turns round the tiny sheet.

"You have something to say, Get it over," Eileen said.

He took her at her word.

"What will you take to stop this?" he demanded.

She did not pretend to misunderstand him.

"Nothing can make me," she said. "Except Martin, of course. I'm here with his consent. I can't see where you come in."

"I can't let my best friend marry an adventuress."

She wrenched away from him, at this, furious and scarlet. Then she got hold of herself, made herself answer quietly. "I'm not an adventuress. You know that if you looked me up, if Martin told you anything he must have told you that I'm doing this because I care."

Rules of The Game

"MARTIN's a playboy, but he's an easygoing idiot too. Passes for a sophisticate because he has no social inhibitions and knows a lot of swing leaders and all that. But he started off wrong with women. Brought up to believe that women are as honest as men. Which they are not. Yes, he believes you're here because you love him—with his nine millions—for himself alone. You said so!"

He made a scornful sound. "Look here—won't you cut this out! I can understand desperation for financial safety. I understand ambition. I know a girl's quickest way's through a man. I don't want to be hard on you. Cut this out. Live for others instead of yourself for once, I'll get you work to do."

"Live for others—like Caroline Dempster—or Lewis Delevan? 'Unscrupulous as to methods!' according to a magazine I read!"

"Caroline! I can handle her," he said. "As for me, yes, I'm working for power any way I can. Because I can push this fool country the way it ought to go, when I'm a step or two higher up." His voice roughened, his eyes blazed. "And Martin has to marry a woman who won't help him throw his millions away as he's doing now. Not you, nor Caroline. I won't see him ruined."

A hand came down on Eileen's shoulder. Martin's voice, laughing, said, "You two playing statues? Your feet will freeze off, Lew." He caught Eileen's hands and swung off with her. He grinned down. "Mind's not on your work, Eileen. I'm it, not Lewis!"

He skated like heaven—they were flying. Presently she heard music. He had turned on a radio amplifier wired out to the pond. The waltz music carried them. The sun glittered on Martin's bare bright head. Eileen was back in the enchantment Martin's presence meant.

"Lewis plucking you like a brand from the burning?" he said presently. She almost lost step. She had forgotten Martin's trick of walking into the middle of a situation and making it seem not painful, merely because nothing mattered a lot and most things were amusing.

"What's me to go home. Must I?" she smiled back.

"Certainly not. The party's just beginning. Don't mind old Lewis. He bossed me when he was my tutor. Terribly important guy—but much better for the world at large than the likes of me. And was the only one I dared trust to check you through. . . I did have to, you know."

"I know. But you believe I'm honest. He doesn't."

"Why didn't you slap him down? You could. He's a rotten skater."

She laughed with him. "Maybe I'm showing you I can keep my temper and get on with your friends. Even make them want to skate with me. Be a lady under all circumstances—" she was half in earnest—"be a good sport!"

"You are a good sport!"

"Oh, if you'll just believe that—just believe I didn't know you from Adam's house cat when you came into Jerry's last June—or anything but your first name until day before yesterday."

"Sure. I believe it. You're a sweet kid."

Mountain Thieves

Colorado Springs, Colo. (AP)—Colorado Springs learned just in time that the city-owned railroad was being stolen.

Connecting the city with its utilities plants, the road has been used frequently. So when Fred Riley, electric division superintendent, learned a particularly heavy piece of equipment would have to be moved over the track he decided to inspect it.

He found that thieves, apparently working each night, had removed a number of 30-foot rails, weighing 650 pounds each, and had sold some of them to a junk dealer.

DEMAND FOR EFFICIENCY!

That's Why Heavy Power Installations and Chrysler Cars Have Fluid Drive

"Immediate adaptation to variable power load" . . . that's how science describes the function of Fluid Drive.

To give gasoline engines the fluid flexibility of steam was long the goal of research engineering.

Efficiency and economy were demanded . . . for industry must count the last penny of cost.

Flexibility to meet all load conditions . . . scientific control of power slippage in place of the hit and miss power loss of individual driving . . . ability to pick up great loads easily . . . these were the economic requirements of industry.

Fluid Drive was the answer! Today the identical principle that drives your Chrysler Car is efficiently serving in Diesel powered ships . . . great double-deck busses . . . heavy tractor-trucks . . . giant industrial refrigeration plants.

Fluid Drive gives industry, as it gives the driver of a Chrysler Car, double economy . . . efficient application of power . . . plus longer life because of lessened strain from jerks and jolts.

Now you can have this two-way efficiency in your own car—if it's a Chrysler—and in addition . . . ease, smoothness and silence possible only with genuine Fluid Drive.

Owners of Fluid Drive Chryslers, for the third year, are reporting greater economy than from their former cars.

Why shift gears? Why stumble away when you can glide away? Chrysler Fluid Drive—jerk-free and jolt-free—is easier on both car and driver. The nearest Chrysler dealer cordially invites you to make a real test of Fluid Drive efficiency and ease.

BE MODERN WITH FLUID DRIVE AND VACUUMATIC TRANSMISSION BUY CHRYSLER!

MONTGOMERY WARD

Expert Advises War on Insects

Bean Beetles Will Attack in July and August

Ithaca, N. Y., May 7.—Many kinds of insects, who have no regard for national defense and who look ahead only to their next meal will trouble vegetable crops this summer, and growers will do well to prepare for them, says Prof. R. W. Leiby, the entomology department at Cornell University. The Mexican bean beetle, which attacks garden snap beans, has become worse each year, and only a dry spell last summer saved bean growers from having the leaves stripped from their plants, he says. This insect is likely to be troublesome in July and August. A three-fourths per cent rotenone dust is recommended for control.

"Another annoying pest of squash, cucumber, and melons, the striped cucumber beetle, is sure to come. It is not an easy insect to kill, but a strong pyrethrum dust will control it. Another effective dust is three-fourths per cent rotenone. It is important to control cucumber beetles because they carry disease to plants when they feed on them."

Sure to Annoy
Other insects that are sure to be annoying if not destructive, this season, are the European corn borer, on sweet corn, which increased its population five times over the previous summer in the Lake Ontario counties last summer, flea beetles on cabbage and young tomato plants, vine borers on squash, ear worms on corn, and squash bugs, Dr. Leiby says. "Cabbage worms are likely to give more trouble than they did last summer. Butterflies of the worms are already flying and are laying eggs on newly set plants. Late-cabbage growers had a hard fight last August and September with the cabbage looper, and many found, because of the damage, they could not hold the cabbage in storage. Early dusting or spraying always produces the best results when cabbage worms are to be controlled."

Another cabbage insect, the maggot, is present now in the fly stage, the Cornell entomologist points out. He urges growers to have a supply of corrosive sublimate and to use it on the ground around the young plants, at the rate of one ounce to ten gallons of water.

New York growers who aim to control diseases and insects of vegetable crops may obtain a free copy of Cornell bulletin E-206. They should send requests, on a penny postcard, to the New York State college of agriculture at Ithaca, New York.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)
Junior Rebellion

New York.—"Why I Love Mother" was the subject of the Boy's Athletic League's essay contest, and all went well until judges found that one of the 500 manuscripts—anonymous—was entitled "Why I Don't Love Mother."

The wayward entry contained a long list of grievances, including:

"She makes me wash my ears every morning."

Deferred Dividend

Bluffton, Ind.—H. F. King sold his huckster wagon 18 years ago but he's still taking in money from it.

A young farmer stopped him and confessed that when he was a boy he'd helped himself to some candy from the wagon.

To clear his conscience, he insisted that King take a nickel in settlement of the debt.

Close Enough

Colorado Springs, Colo.—Only one ballot was cast in the Harrison school district election. It reelected Mrs. Eva B. Sinton president of the board.

The voter hurried into the polling place just before it closed. The voter wasn't Mrs. Sinton.

Cold Shots

Nome, Alaska.—Even the Eskimo has been bitten by the candid camera bug.

Army crews who flew two four-motored bombers to St. Lawrence Island, only a score of miles across the Bering Sea from Russian waters, found themselves the targets of 20 cameras in the hands of natives.

The island is 175 miles from Nome.

Ticket Economy

London (AP)—London's passenger transport board has reduced all tickets by .004 inches in thickness, as a contribution to the war effort. This microscopic saving multiplied by the use of nearly 1,900 million tickets yearly, adds up to approximately 480 tons of paper pulp.

Commodities Rose Sharply Tuesday

Both Import and Domestic Join in Move Skyward

As the Senate Tuesday rejected a House bill for 75 per cent of parity loans on cotton, wheat, corn, tobacco and rice, standing by its own proposition for loans at 85 per cent of parity, and with growing nervousness over the shipping situation and ability to bring import commodities to this country as rapidly as needed, commodities generally again rose sharply.

The Dow-Jones futures index went up to 67.09, highest since the end of July, 1937, and a gain of over a point for the day.

The spot index also moved ahead over a point, highest since September, 1937. Both import and domestic commodities joined in the move skyward.

Wheat futures gained as much as 2 1/2 cents a bushel, while wheat going above 96 cents, while wheat and rye flour were boosted 10 cents a barrel in the New York area. Cotton rose $1.60 to $1.95 a bale, broadest gain for any day since the upward movement started in February and highest level in nearly four years.

In North Street there was a rush to buy textiles and it is estimated that sales of print cloth yarn goods totaled 30,000,000 yards, which makes about 45,000,000 yards for the first two days this week.

Prices were up to 1 cent a yard higher. Cottonseed oil futures made a new four years high and turnover of 637 lots was a record for the present type of contract.

Spot hides advanced another 1/4 cent a pound with sellers not anxious to part with supplies at present prices. Lard and black pepper made new highs. Manufacturers bought cocoa on fears that hostilities may spread to the West African coast, leading producing center, and futures went to a new four years high.

Trading on the Stock Exchange advanced sharply Tuesday, to 907,940 shares, best since April 3, and led by rails and oils prices advanced smartly. The average of 30 industrials in the Dow-Jones list moved ahead 1.26 points, to 117.10; rails gained .49, to 29.22, and the utilities advanced .10, to 17.77. Buoyancy in commodities was a factor in the rise.

All of the 15 most active stocks showed gains for the day. Southern Pacific leading and gaining 1/2 in turnover of 37,200 shares. Heaviest gainers among the actives were Santa Fe and General Motors, each up one point, U. S. Steel, 1 1/4, and Standard Oil, 1 1/2.

During the day 52 stocks, including over 20 retail issues, made new highs for 1941, while 29 stocks made new lows for the year.

Unusually good showing made by Niagara Hudson Power is attracting attention. The company reports earnings equal to 26 cents a common share for the first three months this year as against 19 cents in the 1940 period, after allowing for 30 per cent income taxes. For the 12 months ended March 31 the company earned 73 cents a common share, vs. 47 cents in the preceding 12 months. That the stock is selling at about 2 1/2 times annual earnings on the present basis, although it operates in New York state and is not subject to dismemberment, shows the effect the continued attack on utilities has had on values of utility securities held by the general public.

There are signs that, instead of worry about their cut of 20 per cent in production for the coming model year, automobile producers may be put to it to secure sufficient materials to build cars at the reduced rate of output.

The company reports earnings equal to 26 cents a common share for the first three months this year as against 19 cents in the 1940 period, after allowing for 30 per cent income taxes. For the 12 months ended March 31 the company earned 73 cents a common share, vs. 47 cents in the preceding 12 months. That the stock is selling at about 2 1/2 times annual earnings on the present basis, although it operates in New York state and is not subject to dismemberment, shows the effect the continued attack on utilities has had on values of utility securities held by the general public.

There are signs that, instead of worry about their cut of 20 per cent in production for the coming model year, automobile producers may be put to it to secure sufficient materials to build cars at the reduced rate of output.

Regional Markets Are Satisfactory

Specialists Recommend Better Containers

Yonkers, N. Y., May 7—Despite a lack of standardization, there is little wrong with the packing practices at the four regional markets in the state, at Menands, Syracuse, Rochester and Buffalo. This is the conclusion of the department of vegetable crops at Cornell University after a study of packages and containers used at the markets. The study was made at the request of several marketing committees in upstate New York.

It was agreed, moreover, that a shift to standardized packing methods at the present time would not attract a larger number of buyers from more distant areas. The situation may be different in the next ten years, it was pointed out, and growers may have to adopt some form of standardization and bring about changes in grading, icing, and handling.

"Such changes are not likely to come all at once. They will be required first for a few crops, possibly potatoes, onions, and tomatoes, which are handled in relatively large quantities," says Dr. Hans Platenius.

Too-Large Packages
Although little fault is found in present packing practices, the Cornell vegetable crop specialists do recommend a few changes. The first has to do with unsuitable containers. On one market some growers still insist on using the barrel for melons and even for peppers. "It is obvious," say the crop-men, "that barrels are unsuitable to carry these vegetables safely without causing bruises." This will correct itself soon for second-hand barrels are harder to get.

On the Menands market, the three-peck basket is the most widely used container. This is regarded as suitable for packing peas, beans, summer squash, and other vegetables, but not for tomatoes, pepper, and eggplants which bruise easily in transit.

On the Syracuse and Buffalo markets, an undesirable container is the burlap bag, says the Cornell specialists. Aside from poor appearance, these bags make it difficult to display the vegetables properly.

Another recommended change concerns the handling of bunched root crops. On all these markets nearly all the bunched beets and carrots are handled in bulk without any container. Packing in crates is recommended, and one grower who tried it says the small additional cost makes little difference to the buyer.

The Cornellians say that one of the most desirable containers is the Bruce box. It can be used for a large variety of vegetables, it gives good protection against bruising, and can be stacked easily anywhere in the truck. They urge that growers consider buying second-hand Bruce boxes now, for the price goes up as the season advances.

Another point emphasized is the variation in weight of vegetables in bushel baskets. The recommendation is for market officials to establish some minimum weights for different vegetables in the various containers. Buyers and sellers would then have a sounder basis on which to bargain.

Gretna Green Founded

South Africa now has a "Gretna Green" in the village of Steg, Swaziland. It is similar to the famous smithy in Scotland. Elopement couples, however, are obliged to visit first the local parson or magistrate for the ceremony, but they can add a touch of romance by going to the "Gretna Green" anvil set up outside the police station. Many brides and bridegrooms have had their pictures taken at the anvil.

On The Nose

Atlantic Highlands, N. J. (AP)—"Caught in the Draft," a musical show, was put on by the Catholic Young People's Club of St. Agnes' Church without two of its principal players, Edward A. Dougherty, Jr., and Edward Waldmann were busy being broken in as soldiers.

The first meeting of the season for the women of the Wiltwyck Golf Club was held Tuesday afternoon. Ladies' Day will be held Wednesday of each week during the summer, the same as the program for last year. The first luncheon and tournament will be held June 4.

During the month of May the women will meet on Wednesday for the usual day of golf. Mrs. Robert Clements is chairman of the tournament committee and will be assisted by Mrs. Stanley Hankinson and Mrs. Maurice Davenport in arranging the schedule. Mrs. Albert Salzmann will be in charge of the publicity for the women's activities.

Supervisor

MRS. RAY E. DUMOND

An evening meeting for parents of pupils of the Protestant Week-day School of Christian Education will be held May 23 at 7:30 o'clock in Epworth Hall of Clinton Avenue Methodist Church. This announcement has been made by Mrs. Ray E. Dumond, of 180 Elmendorf street, supervisor of the school.

The program, which will be announced later, will consist of dramatizations and work by the pupils of the week-day school. For the past eight months the Protestant Week-day School of Christian Education has been held each Wednesday for the pupils of the sixth and seventh grades in the city schools.

The parents as well as the faculty have been greatly pleased with the results and hope it will continue next year. All persons interested in religious education are invited to attend.

Service League Has Meeting

The Service League of the First Presbyterian Church held its regular meeting in the church parlor Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Cora Drake conducted the devotional period which preceded the business session. The league is sponsoring a spring supper in June. Mrs. C. C. Miss Burger was accompanied by Miss Edna Merrihey.

Normal School Play Feature of Week-end

Junior week-end, culminating the school's social calendar, will be celebrated at New Paltz Normal School May 9 and 10 by a series of festivities that will be sponsored by the class of 1943.

On Friday evening the Dramatic Club will stage its supreme function of the year, a tragedy by Claire Boothe, "Margin for Error." Saturday afternoon the baseball team will face Albany College at New Paltz. Saturday night will be monopolized by the Junior Prom with its Pan-American atmosphere and Phil Toffel's orchestra.

"Margin for Error," a recent Broadway production, is being directed by Miss Rebecca McKenna, instructor at the Normal. Two other instructors, Richard Rhoades and Dr. Arnold Verduin will appear in major roles in the play.

The other characters will include two Ulster countyites, Josephine Weinberger, Ellenville, and Irene Suskind, Kingston. The play consists of two acts depicting the anti-Nazi propaganda.

Stylized in Latin manner the Junior Prom and the "South of the Border" theme will climax the week-end on Saturday evening.

Phil Toffel's orchestra of this city will supply the music for the "fiesta in the patio," otherwise known as the Normal school gymnasium.

WHY GIRL CANNOT ACCEPT CLOTHES AS GIFT FROM MAN, EVEN HER FIANCÉ, IS EXPLAINED BY EMILY POST

Practical whys concerning the proprieties are not always easy to give to questions asked by the younger generation. For instance, the why of this son described to me in a letter from his mother:

"In our neighborhood lives a young girl who on her eighteenth birthday several weeks ago received a dress as a present from the young man with whom she is, as people say here, 'going steady.' They had seen this dress in a shop window one day when they were out walking, and she had admired it. When I questioned the propriety of a young man's giving a dress to a girl, my son, also 18 remarked, 'Well, why not if that was what she wanted most?' His question sounds sensible but it isn't as easy as all that. Can you explain to him in terms that he will understand?"

The reason, to put it badly, is that no matter how fine a girl may really be, she can not have her rent paid or her clothes bought even by her fiancé. Any gift that can be defined as "maintenance" puts the wrong label on her and that is not an exactly fair impression to give of a young girl whose behavior is above reproach. If your son will take the trouble to think about it, he will know just as we all do that there are certain things a gentleman does not let a nice girl do!

habit to let me know she is giving a party when I happen not to be invited. That is, she does invite me to parties but of course not to all of them. I think she believes that she ought to make a point of letting me know when she is giving one to which I'm not being asked. On the other hand, under similar circumstances I would try to keep it from her if possible, so as not to hurt her feelings. Which is the right point of view in your opinion?

Answer: In my opinion the party should not be dragged into the conversation at all. But if it does come up, it should be spoken about as a matter of course. In other words, making a point of it seems self-consciously apologetic about leaving you out. In the same way, your constrained avoidance of mentioning your parties is equally self-conscious.

The Wedding in the New House

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it suitable for a man and girl to be married in their own new house, which will be completely furnished and ready for housekeeping before the wedding? My parents' house, on the other hand, has grown very shabby and they can't do anything about it.

Answer: Using your house instead of your parents' would be an entirely proper thing to do. As a matter of fact, your guests are certain to be delighted to be given this chance to see your new home. Your parents send the invitations in their names just the same, but of course with your future address instead of their own.

"Old Folks," he's my dad in Iowa, once gave me some very practical and helpful advice. He said, 'When you know nothing about a product be sure you know its maker.' McCormick spices have been our household favorite for many years. It was not until I visited 'Va Olds McCormick Tea House' that I tasted their equally fine banquet tea. I liked the idea of having it packed in modern, clean containers. ### Rickenbacker Walks Again

Atlanta, May 7 (P)—Eddie Rickenbacker, injured in a plane crash near here in February, is beginning to walk again but only with the aid of a "Rube Goldberg contraption." The famous flier, who was a passenger on an E.A.L. plane when it went down, received a hip fracture—a rebreak of an old injury—and yesterday took his first steps with the aid of a device resembling a baby walker and referred to him as a gadget designed by the famous cartoonist.

Mysterious Death

Washington, May 7 (P)—District of Columbia police today pressed their investigation into the mysterious death of Dr. Heinrich Simon, 61 year old refugee German journalist and music critic. Coroner A. His wallet, keys, glasses and hat were missing.

Annual Report of Industrial Bureau

Accomplishments During the Past Year Cited

Locating the Ertel Engineering Corporation on Mill street; the American Coopers Company on Bruyn avenue, and the Jayson Classics, Inc., manufacturers of women's dresses, on O'Neil street, were some of the accomplishments cited in the annual report of the Kingston Industrial Bureau at the meeting held Tuesday evening in the office of the bureau in the city hall.

Appointment of a nominating committee to draft a list of proposed members for the board of directors, and the offer of the Newberry store on Wall street of the use of one of its show windows to display the products manufactured, were the other highlights of the meeting.

President Allan L. Hanstein, who presided, appointed A. L. Colligan, Roy Sulliffe and E. L. Dalgarno as a committee to draft a list of names from which five are to be selected as members of the board of directors. This list will be sent to each member of the bureau with the request that they vote for five.

The financial report showed that the income from subscriptions was $844.42, and that the expenses of operating the organization amounted to $738.44, leaving a balance on hand as of March 31, of $105.98.

The annual report gave an interesting resume of the activities of the bureau and outlined the purposes of the organization. The report stated that since 1930 the city has lost many of its industries, principally industries employing men. The causes back of this loss of industries have been manifold, but back of all has been the general recession in business.

With full appreciation of the fact that Kingston is primarily in need of more employment for men, the object of the bureau has been to cooperate in every way possible with industries now located here and to attract substantial new industrial to the city.

The bureau has also cooperated in bringing conventions into the city and in handling the details of conventions while they were here.

The report said that in addition to the efforts made to locate new industries here the bureau has cooperated in various confidential matters with the sole objective of improving and increasing the city's industrial activities.

The Electrol Aircraft Corporation's acquisition of the Apollo Magneto plant took place early this year, the report stated, and they are particularly glad to note this and a substantial increase in employment has taken place.

The bureau has worked closely with the Local Defense Council and with the state and national councils, and complete files of all information on defense contracts are kept in the office in the city hall.

5,000 Employed

Two surveys were made of local employment, and the latest information shows a substantial increase in employed persons and in payrolls. The report showed about 5,000 are employed in industry in Kingston.

The need for an active industrial bureau to provide a central point of contact, said the report, between the city as a whole, industrial concerns now in the city and those who may wish to locate here, is self evident.

Need $5,000 Budget

The report stated that in order for the Bureau to operate successfully a budget of at least $5,000 was needed. The necessity for travel and trained personnel is apparent.

The work of the Bureau has been carried on by the directors, all of whom have their own business responsibilities to occupy them, and by Harry Kachigan, the clerk of the office, who has done an admirable job.

The report closes with the statement that it was to be hoped that the work that has been begun will be continued on a much more extensive scale.

The Membership

The members of the board of directors are: Allan L. Hanstein, president. James A. Dwyer, vice president. W. A. Van Valkenburgh, secretary.

William O'Reilly, treasurer. James H. Betts, John M. Cashin, E. L. Davey, George Dittmar, Frank A. Hyatt, Harry Kaplan, W. C. Kingman, George Moore, James L. Rowe, Morris Samter, B. C. Van Ingen, Harry B. Walker, Allan L. Hanstein, James A. Dwyer, W. A. Van Valkenburgh, William O'Reilly, Harry Kachigan, clerk. The membership of the Bureau follows: Dedrick's Rug Store.

Donnaruma Is Named to Probe Police Charges

Alderman Walter Donnaruma of the Sixth ward was named a committee of one to investigate charges that the Kingston police department was "indiscreet" in enforcing the one-hour parking ordinance in the uptown business district when the matter was brought to the attention of the Common Council Tuesday evening in a resolution introduced by Alderman Donnaruma that such a committee be appointed.

President John J. Schwenk following considerable debate ended the debate by appointing Alderman Donnaruma as such a committee.

The resolution introduced by Alderman Donnaruma directed the president of the common council to report a special committee of the council to make a study of the recent charges appearing in the public press and the statements of responsible city officials relative to the enforcing of one-hour parking, and that this special committee report its findings and recommendations at the June meeting of the council.

With the reading of the resolution by the City Clerk E. J. Demsey, President Schwenk addressing the council said that no statement by any responsible city official that the police department had not done its sworn duty to enforce the traffic code had been made.

In reply Alderman Donnaruma said he had read the statement made at the public hearing by City Judge Matthew V. Cahill, and it made the police department look "indiscreet."

"We are either going to back up our police department or we are not," said President Schwenk. He said he had been present at the public hearing on the parking meters and that Judge Cahill did not make any statement that the police department was not enforcing its duties.

Alderman Donnaruma said that the traffic law was being enforced too strictly. He said that he was appearing as a friend of the police department, and believed that a council committee should study the entire situation.

Alderman Monroe said he doubted if the council had any jurisdiction. The common council, he said, made the laws and it was up to the executive department of the city to enforce them. He said that undoubtedly there had been some criticism but that the council had no right to act on the proposed resolution.

The debate was abruptly halted by President Schwenk appointing Alderman Donnaruma as a committee of one. Alderman Donnaruma said he would accept the appointment.

Two trustees, five deacons, three deaconesses, church clerk and church treasurer, whose terms of office expire will be voted for at the annual election of officers to be held at the annual meeting. The Rev. John Wright, pastor of the church urges all his congregation to be present at this most important event in the church calendar.

Round Up German Seamen

New York, May 7 (P)—Squads of detectives and immigration inspectors rounded up more than 100 German seamen today, planning to send them to an internment camp in a western city. Armed with warrants charging the sailors with overstaying their leave here, the officers began invading hotel rooms, furnished rooms, and taverns at 4 a. m. (E.S.T.) Two hours later, the seamen—formerly employed on Standard Oil Company tankers—were herded into the U. S. Customs Barge office, with Ellis Island their next stop before being sent west.

U. S. and Canada to Set Up New Economic Boards

Washington, May 7 (P)—The United States and Canada will set up closely collaborating economic defense boards in the immediate future, it was learned authoritatively today, to speed up mobilization of North American resources for aid-to-Britain and hemisphere defense.

In the economic, industrial and financial fields, the new boards would complement the work of the joint U. S.-Canadian defense board set up a year ago to coordinate the military and naval defense preparations of the dominion and this country.

The immediate task of the new economic boards, it was said, will be to expedite the program contemplated in the agreement for joint U. S.-Canadian productive efforts which President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Mackenzie King announced on April 20.

To this end, the twin boards will: Coordinate the interchange of raw materials and manufactured products required for speedy assistance to Britain and other embattled nations, as well as for the hemisphere republics now bolstering their defenses;

Synchronize the production of arms, planes and munitions so as to take full advantage of all present and planned manufacturing facilities, without duplication of effort; and Collaborate in solving economic, industrial and financial problems to achieve the maximum defense and British aid results for both nations.

Camp Information Will Be Available At Local Y. M. C. A.

A summer camp consulting service for parents will be inaugurated during the coming week at the local Y. M. C. A., it was said today by General Secretary George Goodfellow.

With the operation of this proposed service parents in Kingston and Ulster county, without any charge whatever, may obtain information about the various camps for their boys.

It is expected that the group of boys from Kingston will again attend Camp Van Schoonhoven, the "Y" camp located on Burden Lake, near the village of Avon, N. Y. Last year more than 20 boys from Kingston attended this camp.

Among the new camps which the "Y" is recommending this year is Camp Sloane at Lakeville, Conn., which is operated for boys 7 to 18 years old by the Westchester "Y." It is also operated as a camp for girls.

The Huguenot camps, Talcott and Greenkill, operated by the New York city "Y" and located at Huguenot in Orange county, accepts boys between the ages of 8 and 16.

For boys who are desirous of going a little farther afield the "Y" recommends Camp Bilkup at Wolfborough, N. H. Another excellent camp is Camp Dudley on the shores of Lake Champlain at Westport.

Many of the camps will reach their capacity enrollment within the next week or so and parents who are interested should get in touch with Mr. Goodfellow immediately.

Sees American Intervention

Rome, May 7 (P)—Virginio Gayda, the eminent Fascist editor, said today that Secretary Stimson's advocacy of United States naval protection for shipments to Britain could be considered a preliminary announcement of open American intervention in the war.

The editor of Il Giornale D'Italia also interpreted Stimson's statements on United States-British control of the Atlantic as "evidently meaning a true and real political-military alliance to become effective in the more or less near future."

One salvo from the 16-inch guns of the U. S. S. North Carolina will hurl 20 tons of steel and TNT over a distance of 18 miles.

now on exhibition in the Flanagan window on Wall street.

There are 22 different trophies for senior and junior classes. A special prize is to be awarded to the finest appearing color guard. Competition, barring rain, will be held at the Municipal Stadium.

Scheduled to take part in the parade, according to entries received so far, are drum corps representing Fort Ewen, Junior American Legion, 4-H Club, Young Men's American Legion, Poughkeepsie, Beacon, Fishkill and Wappingers Falls. There may be other entries which will not be known until the day of the parade.

(By The Associated Press)
The St. Louis Cardinals and Cleveland Indians are at the crossroads today, their winning streaks shattered and their pursuers confronting them face to face.

After winning 11 games in a row the Indians tripped over the Washington Senators yesterday 5-3 and the Cardinals' ten-game string was snapped at Boston by the Braves, 5-4. In each case errors were responsible for the defeat.

It was inevitable that their streaks would be interrupted. The question is whether they can keep up a consistent clip now that their stride has been broken.

Today and tomorrow the Indians will be up against the challenge of the New York Yankees and the Cardinals will collide with the Brooklyn Dodgers, who themselves had a nine-game streak up till a week ago. If the league leaders blow these ventures, the races will be wide open again.

Tribe Loses on Error
The tribe was stopped through a two-base error by Ken Keltner. Jim Bagby and Dutch Leonard were locked in a tight pitching duel with the score tied 2-2 at the start of the eighth. With two out the Senators loaded the bases on two singles and a walk. Then Keltner let a bouncer by Ben Chapman go through him for two bases and two runs.

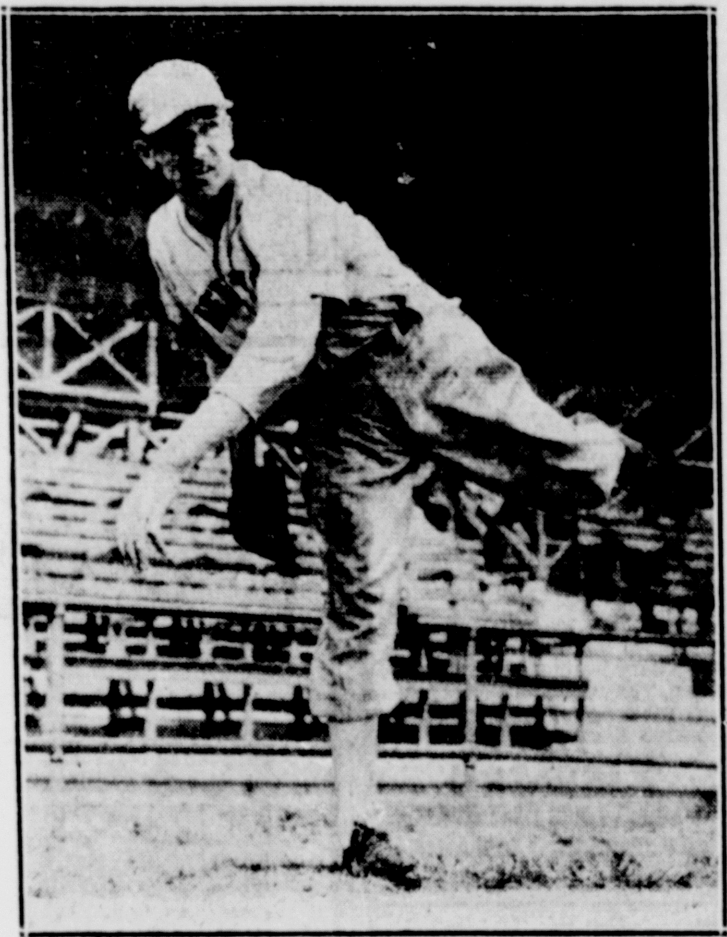

In the only other American League game the Detroit Tigers nursed their incipient winning streak to five games and moved into second place with a 7-4 conquest of the Yankees as a farewell gesture to Hank Greenberg.

The highest-salaried, most valuable player in the American League was to be inducted into the army today and he paid his last respects to the 1941 baseball season by belting two home runs, the first he had hit in 15 games. Bruce Campbell also punched out a pair of round-trippers and young Johnny Gorsica pitched five hit balls.

The Cardinals outthit the Braves 11 to 6 and had a two-run lead until the bottom fell out in a five-run fifth inning. John Grodzicki, fastball rookie, walked two men at the start of this frame, but made the next two fly out. Then Jim Brown muffed a grounder to fill the bases and the youngster was rattled to the extent of forcing in a run with another walk. Sam Nahem relieved him and was touched for four runs on singles by Maxie West and Eddie Miller and an error by Terry Moore.

Herman Makes Debut
The Dodgers celebrated their acquisition of Billy Herman by pummeling the Pittsburgh Pirates 7-3. Dixie Walker got two home runs, including one with the bases loaded to break a tie in the seventh. Joe Medwick hit a circuit drive with one on, and Herman, who had been batting .194 for the Chicago Cubs, treated himself to a perfect day at bat with a double and three singles.

Wins First Game of 1941

CARL HUBBELL

The screwball master himself, King Carl Hubbell, chalked up his first triumph of the season yesterday afternoon at the Polo Grounds by limiting the Chicago Cubs to four hits and winning by 5 to 3. Hubbald gave up all three markers in the first frame and then settled down to do some flinging from the portside. In the opening session Hubbell erased Stan Hack and Lou Stringer, but then the fireworks started. He hit Dom Dallessandro and then Bill Nicholson lined a single. Out stepped Hank Leiber, playing his first game, and homered into the stands. The Terrymen came back, however, on homers by Babe Young and Mel Ott. Hubbell walked five and fanned seven in winning his first of 1941.

The Phillies pasted the Cincinnati Reds with their sixth setback in seven games 4-2 as the veteran Cy Blanton bested Johnny Vander Meer in a pitching duel. Vandy gave only six hits, struck out 11 and walked five, but Blanton was more effective in spacing five hits, fanning three and walking none.

The Cubs were crushed for the tenth time in 12 games as the New York Giants triumphed 5-3 on the four-hit hurling of old Carl Hubbell.

Hubbald hit a three-run homer to Hank Leiber in the first inning, then settled down to a masterpiece of pitching.

Vogel Brothers Win
St. Paul, Minn., May 7 (AP)—This town will go back to normalcy today, after a hectic 55-day program of the American Bowling Congress. None of the high ten minor event leaders was threatened on the final day, after the Vogel Brothers team of Forest Park, Ill., had clinched the team event Monday with a 3,065 total. Bill Lee and Ray Farness of Madison, Wis., won the doubles with 1346; Fred Ruff Jr. of Belleville, Ill., the singles via a 745 total while Harold Kelly gave South Bend, Ind., its first tenpin title in winning the all-events with 2013.

Athens (Ala.) college has a history mill employing several hundred students and paying sufficient wages to keep them in school.

Jimmy Wilson Says Galan and Leiber Also Are on Block

Danger Signal to All Players; Hopes to Rebuild Bruins

Chicago, May 7 (AP)—The National League pennant may be won or lost this season by the trades of Jimmy Wilson, unhappy pilot of the Chicago Cubs, now angrily resting (?) in the circuit basement.

He's rebuilding the club at a terrific pace, each knock of his hammer having an effect on the flag chase. He needs a short stop; the one he got was Billy Myers, good enough to play that spot for Cincinnati's two-time champions, and Brooklyn, front-line challenger for the Reds' title, needed a second baseman.

Wilson obliged by sending them Billy Herman, of the Cubs' old guard and the best keystone in the league, greatly enhancing the Dodgers' pennant hopes. Thus Wilson's deals produced changes on two top-flight teams, but he isn't through yet.

"If they don't play ball for me, the other teams can have 'em," Wilson declared after the Herman deal was completed. He refused to elaborate on this manifesto, but added that Hank Leiber, outfielder now playing first base, and Outfielder Augie Galan, also were on the block.

BRITISH SOLDIERS EVACUATED FROM GREECE

Stimson Calls For Use of Navy

tence, as in 1917, that Germany respect this country's right to such freedom on the high seas.

Trial Balloons

Senate opponents of administration policy said they regarded Stimson's address and Senator Pepper's speech in the Senate yesterday as trial balloons to ascertain the country's sentiment toward active involvement in the war. Pepper urged joint action by the U. S. and British fleets.

"After speeches by the President and Willkie," Senator Nye (R., N. D.) told reporters, "now come Pepper and Stimson. Today the organized interventionists will flood Washington with messages supporting them."

"They are just some more trial balloons for involvement, but they can be quickly punctured if the unorganized majority who are against convoys can make their position known."

Stimson, who made no mention of convoys, spoke with gravity last night of Britain's imperiled lifelines and declared that Germany was making her peak efforts to sever those supply routes.

In the face of this threat, he said, the lease-lend program with all its enormous appropriations "is not sufficient." The question, as he saw it, was delivery to Great Britain of the supplies the United States was shipping.

"If today," he continued, "the navy should make secure the seas for the delivery of our munitions to Great Britain, it will render a great service to our own country and to the preservation of American freedom as it has ever rendered in all its glorious history."

Render Secure All Oceans

"Supplementing the efforts of the British navy, it can render secure all of the oceans, north and south, west and east, which surround our continent. In that way it can help to hold in check the onward rush of the tide of Nazism until the other defense forces of all the democracies are completed."

"If we should allow the present strategic moment to pass until the power of the British navy is gone, the power of our navy would become merely a secondary power instead of the decisive and winning power in the world contest."

"After providing for billions worth of munitions to carry on the defense of our freedom, and while we hold in our hands the instrument ready and able to make all these steps effective, shall we now flinch and permit these munitions to be sunk in the Atlantic Ocean?"

"Our entire history," he said, "shows no precedent to make such a supposition credible. Neither the government nor people of the United States have ever given occasion to make any one believe that such an act of irresponsibility and indecision would be possible."

Stimson, it was noted, made no specific suggestions as to how the navy should be used. Some informed sources considered this significant, for they believe that convoys may not be the best system under present war conditions, and that more effective tactics could be worked out if the U. S. fleet and the Royal Navy were operating jointly.

The proposal for naval assistance, however, was interpreted in some quarters as an indication that the recent far-flung extension of U. S. patrols in the Atlantic had failed thus far to help Britain cope with the assaults on her shipping lanes. This might mean major developments had occurred in the past ten days, it was said, for previously London officials had hailed the patrol extension as a decision of "tremendous" importance.

Follows Theme of Others

Stimson's insistence of the necessity of getting lease-lend cargoes safely to Britain followed the theme which cabinet members have emphasized in recent public utterances. He went farther, however, in that he proposed the way to do it.

Secretary of Agriculture Wickard first touched on the subject on April 24 in New York when he told a Farmers Conference that the war had been a story of aid arriving "too little and too late."

"Millions of Americans are getting sick of that story," he declared, adding that the United States "must act like a great nation" if it is to continue as one.

That night both Secretary of State Hull and Secretary of Navy Knox used more direct language.

Hull declared that the nation's policy was that aid-to-Britain "must reach its destination in the shortest of time and in the maximum quantity. So — ways must be found to do this."

Knox said flatly: "We cannot allow our goods to be sunk in the Atlantic. We shall be beaten if they do. We must see this job through. This is our fight."

Last week Secretary of Commerce Jones told the U. S. Chamber of Commerce that "we have chosen our course and should not waste too much time over road maps."

There has been no intimation from official sources as to how much, if any, lease-lend material has been lost at sea. The Red Cross announced yesterday, however, that out of the $14,000,000 in supplies the organization has started for Britain, $1,056,000 worth has gone to the bottom.

Comment in Berlin

Berlin, May 7 (AP)—Secretary Stimson's suggestion that the United States fleet be employed to protect shipments of material to England prompted in Berlin today the comment: "The consequence of such a policy would be clear."

Authorized spokesmen referred again to the oft-stated German warning that any ship sailing through the blockade to England "which comes within the range of our torpedo tubes will be sunk."
